Sharing

After each time of sketching, we will share our ideas.

We briefly mention which task(s) we sketched for and explain the sketch.
Each person has approximately 1 minute to share.

Resketch

After sharing time, we will once again sketch and refine our ideas. We encourage you to use someone else’s ideas that you liked the most. You might want to incorporate new ideas or even target different tasks you have not covered before.

Resharing

We will once again share our sketches. Again, each person has 1 minute.

Tasks

In each round (Category), you will cover 3-5 tasks under the respective category. So you have 5 minutes to cover 3-5 tasks.

You can choose up to 3 tasks to cover at once and produce one sketch for them. Covering multiple tasks together might help you save some time, and putting them in one sketch can help share similarities between solutions.

Time management is important!

There is a time limit on each set of sketching, but there is no limit on sketching for each task.

We suggest that you keep an eye on the clock we set, so you divide your time evenly between tasks. The suggested time for each task is up to 1.5 min.

Break

There is a 5-minute break between rounds.

In this 5 minute, I will help you put away your sketches and clean the table for the new round.

If you want to reuse some materials, like the board or the map, I will help you take them apart after I photographed them.

Tools

You can use all the materials on the table.

The tasks are numbered. Please label your sketches with the task number using pens or sticky notes, if you’d prefer.

You can produce multiple sketches on one piece of material, as long as you label them.

Structure

1. Do a round 0 to understand the process- 5 min
